YOU WILL NEED

Provided:

Assorted balloons
Balloon Tape
Balloon Glue Dots
Clear Wire
Sticky Hooks

Not provided:

Balloon Pump
(recommended!)
Scissors

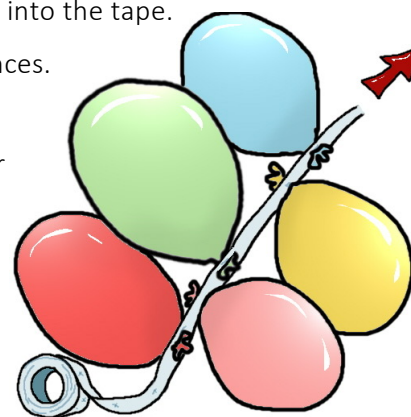

Step 1: Blow up balloons (we recommend using a balloon pump) and tie them securely (same size or different sizes)

Step 2: Decide on whether you would like a solid rainbow or a mix of colours - this will determine on what order you place your balloons in as you start inserting them into the tape.

Top Tip: place them altogether on the floor and play around with colour sequences.

Step 3: Now take one end of the tape and start inserting your balloon end into the larger end of a hole and pulling it up slightly to the smaller end of the same hole to secure in place. You can either place them all on the same side of the tape or alternate.

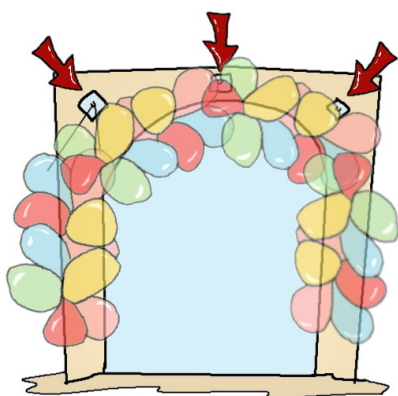

Step 4: Follow the tape and insert a balloon into each hole. There are approx. 50 balloons, however you can add in more if you like as there is ample tape provided.

Step 5: Once all the balloons are in place (don't worry if some start to pop out, this is normal, just insert them back in) use your arms to hold the arch up to plan how it might look and the position how you'd like it.

Top Tips:

- You can have the arch as a full arch or half arch as seen in the video.
- You may need to swizzle the tape to help bunch the balloons together.

Step 6: Now take your sticky hooks (peel off the back) and place them on the closest flat surfaces nearest to the arch – this will be where you tie/hook the wire to, to hold your balloon arch in place.

Step 7: Now take the clear wire and measure the distance between the hook and where you'd like your arch to rest. Create a loop and tie it through a hole (or around) the tape. Repeat as is necessary.

Step 8: Now hook the wire loops over the hooks you have placed on the walls above to hold the arch in place.

Step 9: Finally, use the balloon glue tabs to remove any gaps in the balloons - just cut a piece off the tab (don't touch the glue spot as it's extremely sticky!), stick it on the balloon and then peel the back off the tab. Now push the two balloons together to remove the gap and they will stick! Use as many as you need!

NOW TAKE A STEP BACK AND ADMIRE YOUR RAINBOW BALLOON ARCH!
